Among others present were Julius Chambers, Julian Halph. W. Lewis Frazer, Chester B. Lord, Frank W. Carpenter, Frank Ferguson, Col. Richard B. Irwin and W. F. Neefus.

Aft. Wiman was the first of the guests toasted, and he responded in his brighlest vein, and then Mr. Hengough astonished and delighted the company with an exhibition of versatile gentus that kept his anditors in a roar of lyughter all the evening. He made elever crayon sketches and impromptu portraits of well-known public men and of many of those present, sang, recited and gave imitations. In fact, he was a host in himself. Afterwards the sketches were presented to the Club, and they will be treasured among its choicest possessions.

Mrs. O'Shea has at length prepared the documents ordered by the Court.

The child's appearance was described as a construction of the child and paid its board, then she ran away with Mr. Motzager and ceased to pay the child's board.

Under these circumstances Mrs. Metzger said she tried to retain the child as security for the five months board which was due, but the mother secured the infant.

Another child named John Soyer, aged to seven years, was found boarding in Mrs. Metzger's abartments and Mrs. Metzger had no license to care for children.

She was locked up on a charge of cruelty and Mrs. Hyan was locked up for abandon with his proposed tour in America.

The story was told to Justice Meade in the Harlem Court this morning, where the prisoners were defended by Lawyer trabricial to retain the child as security for the five months board which was due, but the mother secured the infant.
